President's Message for August:

Summer Feels Too Short

Summer felt longer when I was a kid. Perhaps it is just that when I was a child, I didn't have papers (newsletters) due in June and August.

In reality, of course, summer will stretch on long into what would have been fall in the Midwest where I grew up. Nonetheless, it is time to turn our attentions to the signs of the approaching Rhododendron Society year. The first herald is the approach of the Smith Garden Soiree, being held as usual on the third Thursday in August, which this year is Thursday, August 17th. The Soiree is described in more detail in this newsletter, but setup is scheduled for 5:30 pm, with potluck dinner to follow at 6:00 pm. In past years, it has been an occasion for a relaxing walk through the garden and good conversation over a shared meal with our friends from the Portland, Tualatin Valley, and Willamette Chapters. Other friends are very welcome.

The second harbinger of the new Rhododendron season is Steve & Brenda's 2017 Summer Party, which this year will be on Sunday, August 27th, starting at Noon, with Salmon and additional potluck at 1:00 pm. Remember to RSVP by Wednesday, August 23rd, so Steve can figure out how much salmon he will be working his magic on. An invitation appears elsewhere in this newsletter.

Nor is it too early to start looking forward to the first program of the new year. Our program on September 21st will feature one of our favorite speakers, Dennis Bottemiller, describing tricks for propagating difficult rhododendrons, together with the Chapter cutting exchange. More on the details in our September newsletter.

But even without all the signs and expectations, admit it. You are starting to look forward to talking with your Rhododendron Society friends about the effect of the winter freeze on the timing of the azalea lacebug hatch and about how your improved drainage allowed you to water freely and assist your prize rhododendrons in getting through our current heat wave. One of the many blessings of our group is that there is always something to look forward to in the garden.

I hope to see you at one of our August events.

Dennis O'Malley

Purpose

To encourage interest in and disseminate information and knowledge about the genus Rhododendron.

To provide a medium through which all persons interested in the genus may communicate with others through education, scientific studies, meetings, publications, and other similar activities.

The Portland Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society is registered in Oregon as a 501 (C)(3) non-profit organization. Dues and donations are qualified charitable tax deductions.

September Cutting Exchange:

The September meeting features not only the welcome back after the doldrums of summer, but also the excitement of the annual Cutting Exchange. The Chapter's website, www.rhodies.org, features details, but the basic rules are:

- Rare plants are preferable, but common types that propagate well are also desirable;
- Cuttings fare best when collected in the cool of the day close to the meeting;
- Lateral buds without developing flower buds;
- Cut the stem as long as possible;
- Keep the cuttings hydrated in a zip-lock bag;
- At least three cuttings per bag, if possible;
- Include a tag with the name of the plant and your name;
- Refrigerate;
- No lace bug.

Special requests:

- Chemainus
- fletcherianum 'Yellow Bunting'
- flinckii
- impeditum Litangense group
- Vireya: christii, celebicum, curviflorum
- yak cross: 'Chelsea Seventy'

We Have a Facebook Page !

Are you on Facebook? Did you know that our Chapter has a group page? We welcome you to join our group. It's easy. Go to your Facebook page. In the search bar at the top of the page, type in American Rhododendron Society—Portland Chapter. Click on the title in the results list (it should be listed first). On our group page on the top picture, click on the button that says "Join"! That's it. The administrators of the site will approve your request! David Anderson is working to make sure we have some great content on the page, so come back and visit it often.

R. arborescens x R. prunifolium = A Late Summer Bloomer

By Maria Stewart

A rhododendron that is blooming in August? With all this hot weather? And it still catches your eye with its beauty? The genus Rhododendron never ceases to amaze us with its diversity and in this case, we see a pleasing extension of the blooming season. Appropriately, this deciduous azalea is named ‘August Sunrise’ and its hybridization is credited to Fred Galle of Callaway Gardens in Pine Mountain, Georgia. These special gardens were created to protect American species azaleas, certainly a group of rhododendrons to treasure.

To explain the summer blooming of ‘August Sunrise’, let’s first talk about R. prunifolium, which blooms from July to September. Called the ‘Plumleaf Azalea’, it has orange-red to red flowers, smooth leaves and stems and dark green leaves. The traits of this species are stable because of its late blooming time. Growing quite tall, up to 20 feet or more, prunifolium likes cool places along creeks and in ravines. It is found in a very small range covering only eleven counties along the Alabama-Georgia border.

Now R. arborescens has fragrant white flowers, often with yellow blotches and prominent red pistils and stamens. Called the “Sweet Azalea”, it blooms from May to August. The leaves are smooth to semi-glossy and vary from medium green to dark green with glaucous undersides. Growing to fifteen feet and very stoloniferous, R. arborescens is one of North America’s most recognizable species. However, there is another form of R. arborescens named variety georgiana that grows in the low elevations of Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. It blooms in August and September instead of May to August like its cousin in the highlands, Its leaves are not glaucous and this variety is not stoloniferous, although its flowers are white with the distinctive red pistils and stamens. The interesting trait in common with R. prunifolium is the location of R. arborescens var, georgiana causing botanists to explain the pink or salmon shades of a few R. prunifolium to close encounters between to two species. That is why R. ‘August Sunrise’ is listed as a possible open-pollinated hybrid on the website hirsutum.

Here is more information about R. ‘August Sunrise’:

Classification: Subgenus Pentanthera; Section Pentanthera

It is an elepidote.

Flowers: medium pink with a gold blotch that combines with the pink to look slightly tangerine; five petals with five long red stamens; mildly fragrant,

Foliage: medium green and semi-glossy; smooth surfaces; deciduous.

Height in 10 years: 5 to 8 feet, growing upright and bushy.

Hardiness: -10 to -15 degrees F.

Siting in your garden: morning sun, afternoon filtered sunlight.
